What is e4641+?

e4641+ was developed to assist banks and financial institutions to free up human resources and increase efficiency by automating the responses to SSA's Form 4641 or e4641 requests.

Many organizations have dedicated personnel dealing with responding to these requests by manually inputting customer data into the Social Security Administrations e4641 website or even worse, sending this information via fax or snail mail.

e4641+ automates the entire request and response work process so that human resources can be freed of doing this task of researching customer data and sending responses to the SSA.

How it works?

The bank or financial institution will be enrolled into the Social Security Administrations e4641 program if not already enrolled.

e4641+ will be installed and implemented onto a designated server computer. The Social Security Administration is given the details of the server, and all e4641 requests will then be received as an .xml file filled with customer request data. Once this file is received, e4641+ will analyze the contents and then search the database for customer records and create an .xml file of its own to respond with.

This response .xml file will include the data that the SSA has requested, and then transmitted securely over an encrypted connection to their designated SFTP server which completes the process.

What else?

e4641+ is basically a "quality of life" improvement application as it frees up human resources from doing repetitive, time consuming, tedious tasks. e4641+ will eliminate all request backlogs.

A web-based administrative front-end is available to monitor everything that e4641+ is doing for you on a daily basis.

It is also configurable so that e-mail notifications can be sent with summaries on what e4641+ did on a daily basis or set interval.
